Cordyline Australis

A hardy evergreen palm that comes in many colour variations.

Ideal for container growing but can also be planted in sunny, sheltered borders with well drained soil.

A cordyline will naturally drop its lower leaves to form its thick woody trunk.

Some coloured varieties will need extra winter protection.

Feed with a granular feed in the autumn and keep well-watered throughout the year, particularly in dry and/or windy conditions.

Eventual Height and Spread: 8m x 4m
depending on variety
